

Mock Election

Script for presentation to Mr. Hammonds class

Bari: Introduction

Jess: How to vote and where to stand.

Bari: How the popular vote works

Jacklyn: Read the ballot

Abby: Where and when the mock election will take place

Bari: Hey everyone! We are from Ms. Hutts eighth grade Social Studies class. I'm Bari, This is Abby, and Jacklyn and Jessica. We are gonna be holding a mock election, its like a real election but kinda fake, it doesn't count.

Abby: The mock election will take place October 29th. At the end of the eighth grade hallway upstairs there will be a voting booth. This is where you will fill out a ballot with your vote. Your class will be signed up for a fifteen minute time slot between 9:25 and 1:35. Your teacher will have the time your class will be voting.

Jess: Once you get to the booths, you'll line up beside the lockers, quietly, and wait until it's your turn. You'll get your ballot when you sign up with whoever is at the table beside the booth. Once you take your ballot you'll go into the voting booths, cast your vote, bring your ballot back out, and put it in the box.

Bari: The mock election will be done by popular vote. That means the candidates or questions that get the most votes will win the election.

Jacklyn: Read ballot. All the votes will be counted unless you put a random word in the write in. Then the ballot will be thrown out.

Bari: Are there any questions?
